NAME	ORIGIN	SIGNIFICANCE
Ehrlich Circuit	Karen Gae Ehrlich (1952-1996)	Environmental lawyer; community service Karen Ehrlich studied law at the University of Sydney and was admitted to practice in 1980. She provided leadership and was a role model for the professional development of national and international environmental law, pro bono services to the environment, cancer research and women in business. She began her volunteer work at the community based Environmental Defenders Office NSW during Law School. Ehrlich was co-founder and chairwoman of the National Enterprising Women in Business Organisation (NEWIB). She served on the Environmental Advisory Committee for the Sydney Olympics and was a board member of the NSW State Chamber of Commerce. She was a foundation member of the Environmental Law Practice for Baker and McKenzie from 1991-93. In 1993, she established the partnership of Craig and Ehrlich to practice a unique blend of specialist environmental and natural resource law and volunteer service to national and international non-government organisations in support of environmental and Indigenous rights. She worked and managed Craig and Ehrlich during her cancer diagnosis and treatment and was one of the original members of the GO Fund Committee, established to raise funds to support research, early detection and treatment of gynaecological cancer.

Kilduff Street

Charles Francis
Kilduff
(1924-2012)

Inaugural Chief Magistrate of the ACT

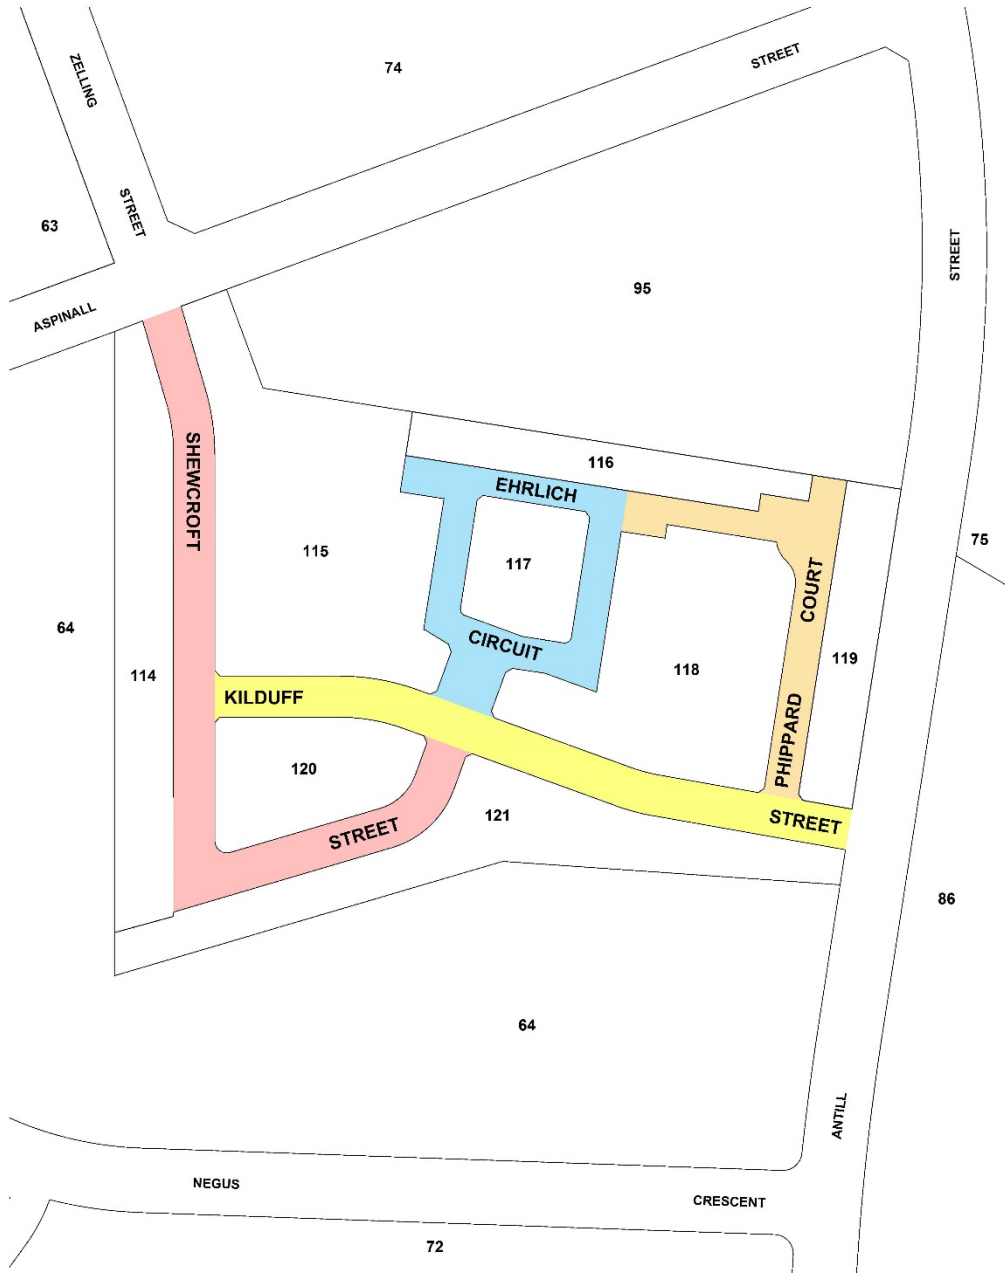

Charles Kilduff saw active service in World War II and Vietnam, rising to the rank of Major. He was admitted to the New South Wales Bar in 1957 and practised in New South Wales and in Papua New Guinea. Kilduff served in senior positions in the Attorney General's Department in Canberra and Darwin, including Principal Legal Officer in the Northern Territory and Assistant Crown Law Officer. The office of Chief Magistrate of the Australian Capital Territory was created in 1973 and Kilduff was appointed the first Chief Magistrate in April 1974. During his term of office, legislation to take the positions of Chief Magistrate and Stipendiary Magistrate outside the public service came into effect making magistrates statutory officers and preserving their independence. When Kilduff resigned in March 1980, the Commonwealth Attorney General recognised his significant contribution to the administration of justice in Canberra. Following his resignation, Kilduff returned to private practice as a barrister in New South Wales and the ACT. He was admitted to the Victorian Bar in 1982 and continued to practise until 1995.

Phippard Court	Stanley Raymond Phippard	Solicitor; Canberra resident; community service
	(1901-1957)	Stanley Phippard was educated at the University of Sydney, where he gained the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Law. He arrived in Canberra in 1935 as one of the first solicitors in the city. He practised in Canberra over a period of twenty years. In early 1956 he amalgamated his practice with Sydney firm ‘Gibson and Macphillamy’ to establish the Canberra office of ‘Phippard, Macphillamy and Gibson’. Phippard had a passion for literature and theatre and was an executive member of the Canberra Repertory Society in the 1940s. He drew up the Memorandum and Articles of Association which turned Repertory into a corporate, limited-liability, non-profit organisation able to receive government funding. He produced four plays for the society including his first production ‘Othello’, presented in the Albert Hall in 1945 and ‘The Electra’ performed in the 2CA Theatre. In 1949 he produced ‘Duchess of Malfi’.

Shewcroft Street	Joyce Eileen Shewcroft OBE (1912-2001)	Barrister, lawyer, legal adviser and poet Joyce Shewcroft has been described as 'the first female corporation lawyer and first media lawyer in Australia'. She specialised in copyright, broadcasting and film-making law. Shewcroft was Legal Adviser and Head of the Legal Department of the Australian Broadcasting Commission (ABC) from 1947-77. She was admitted to the Bar in 1942 but did not go into private practice until 1977. She was a founding member and one of the first presidents of the New South Wales Women Lawyers' Association and honorary legal adviser to the Medical Women's Society of NSW and to the Royal Academy of Dance. Shewcroft co-founded the ABC Credit Union and became the first woman chair of a credit union in Australia. She was a member of the Commonwealth Attorney General's Copyright Review Committee on Reprographic Reproduction in 1976-77. She was appointed by the Australian Council For Overseas Aid as a commissioner of an Independent Inquiry into East Timor. Shewcroft was a life member of the NSW Bar Association and the NSW Women Lawyers' Association. She wrote extensively, winning prizes for her poetry, and was published in 'The Penguin Book of Australian Verse' in 1958.
