STATUTE LAW REVISION (PENALTIES) BILL 1993

OUTLINE

The Statute Law Revision (Penalties) Bill 1993 gives effect to the outcome of the first stage of a review of penalties in Territory statutes. This review is being conducted on the basis of review principles and penalty scales approved by the Government. These principles and scales are set out at the end of this explanatory memorandum.

The Bill updates the penalties (i) which are in legislation of high social importance, (ii) which apply to offences of frequent occurrence, or (iii) which have been the subject of criticism.

An important feature of this Bill is that for the first time in the Territory, monetary penalties are converted to penalty units, a measure that is in line with the penalty units system applying in legislation of other jurisdictions, such as the Commonwealth, New South Wales, Victoria and Queensland.

The value of a unit is specified in the Interpretation (Amendment) Bill 1993 which is to be introduced in the Legislative Assembly at the same time as this Bill.

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS

The Bill is intended to be budget neutral.

CLAUSE NOTES*Clause 1: Short title

This clause provides that the proposed Act may be cited as the Statute Law Revision (Penalties) Act 1993.

Clause 2: Commencement

Clause 2 states that the proposed Act will commence upon notification in the Gazette.

Also, this clause provides that section 3 [clause 3] will commence on a day fixed by the Minister by notice in the Gazette. Otherwise, that section will commence at the end of the period of 6 months from the notification of the proposed Act in the Gazette.

Clause 3: Amendments of Acts

This clause provides for amendments of Acts specified in the Schedule.

In addition to updating penalties in line with the approved principles and scale, some provisions have been redrafted to clarify their effect. The redrafting does not affect the purpose or effect of those provisions. Some important redrafted provisions are sections 46 and 47 of the Medical Practitioners Act 1930. Currently there is an overlap between sections 46 and 47 of this Act in relation to the offence of a person other than a registered medical practitioner advertising or holding himself or herself out, as being a registered medical practitioner. The redrafted provisions avoid this overlap. The redrafted section 46 is limited to prohibiting a person other than a registered medical practitioner providing a medical service. The penalty provided for this offence is to be 50 penalty units or imprisonment for 6 months, or both. The redrafted section 47 deals with prohibited advertising or holding out and provides a penalty of 30 penalty units.

Some other redrafting changes are:

Consumer Affairs Act 1973: the proposed Act omits section 15H (a general penalty provision) and provides penalties under subsections 15B(5) and 15C(2).

Motor Traffic (Alcohol and Drugs) Act 1977 : Sections 26 and 27, and paragraph 46(2)(b) are to be omitted. Section 26 currently provides penalties for offences under sections 19 (driving with excess blood alcohol concentration level), 22 (refusal to provide sample of breath for analysis), 23 (refusal to submit to blood test or medical examination) and 24 (driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drug) of this Act. Section 27 provides a penalty for subsequent offences under these provisions. Paragraph 46(2)(b) is also a subsequent offence provision. The proposed Act provides a penalty of 30 penalty units in sections 19, 22, 23 and 24 for offences.

The penalties in ACT legislation are being reviewed in the light of the following Government approved Penalties Review Principles and Suggested Penalty Scale for Regulatory Offences.

PENALTIES REVIEW PRINCIPLES

- 1 The maximum penalty for an offence should be stated at the foot of the provision creating or defining the offence.
n.b. Minimum sentences or penalties for first and subsequent offences should normally be avoided.
- 2 The maximum penalty should reflect the seriousness of the offence relative to other offences of a similar nature.
n.b. It is for legislation to set the maximum and for the trial court to determine the appropriate penalty for a particular offender.
- 3 The maximum penalty should be a fine (of $100, or in the case of a body corporate $500, or a multiple thereof) or for more serious offences, a period of (not less than 6 months) imprisonment.
n.b. The ratio between fines and imprisonment should be $5000:6 months.
4. A penalty of imprisonment should be set only for offences involving elements of the following (either actual or implied):
  - # dishonesty;
  - # abuse of authority or trust;
  - # violence;
  - # endangerment of life or property;
  - # perversion;
  - # obstruction of justice or law enforcement;
  - # subversion;
  - # activities similar to these.

n.b. Imprisonment should not be available as a penalty for most minor offences. Penalties of imprisonment only (without provision for a fine) should only be set in exceptional circumstances.
- 5 Terms of imprisonment fixed prior to September 1989 may need to be reduced by up to 1/3rd to reflect truth in sentencing (viz the abolition of remissions in NSW)
- 6 Penalties provided by regulations or other subordinate legislation should not exceed a fine of $5000 in the case of bodies corporate and $1000 in the case of individuals.
n.b. A term of imprisonment should not be prescribed for an offence contained in regulations.

- 7 General penalties at the end of an Act and maximum penalties calculated by reference to a formula which requires proof of one or more elements are undesirable.
- 8 Any departure from these principles should be justified in the Cabinet submission proposing or reviewing the penalty concerned.
- 9 These principles will be subject to systematic and continuing review in accordance with the principles of social justice.

Suggested Penalty Scale for Regulatory Offences

Category	Imprisonment	Fine
1	12 months	$10000	or both
2	6 months	$5000	or both
