An address by

Professor John Braithwaite

of the Research School of Social Sciences,

at the National Press Club

Professor Braithwaite will speak on a range of issues including institutional reform in the nation's criminal justice systems, the community conferencing system for offenders and victims of crime which is being piloted in ACT, wastage of public funds in our police and prison systems and the political and social costs of "political bidding competitions" to get tough on crime.

Professor Braithwaite is author of the book, Crime, Shame, and Reintegration which has provided the theoretical rationale for community conferencing. The book has won three international awards including the American Society of Criminology Award for the most important contribution to criminology in the previous three years.

12:30 - 2pm

The address is a lunchtime function and includes a two course meal, wine, tea and coffee. Tickets are $26 for Press Club members, $36 for non-members, and $20 for student members.

General Medical Practice in Australia Beyond 2000

An address by

Professor Bob Douglas

Director, National Centre for Epidemiology and Population Health,
Australian National University,
at the National Press Club

Professor Douglas will discuss the remuneration of general practitioners, their current maldistribution, the likely impact of computer and "smart card" technology on health care, and the implications of the COAG health and community services reforms announced in April. He will argue that general practitioners must play a new and vital role in the Australian health care system as the COAG reforms unfold and that this will require adjustment not only by GPs but also by their patients.

Professor Douglas has a long and ongoing research interest in the organisation and evaluation of general practice and is currently writing the final report of a national "think tank" of general practitioners convened by the NCEPH in April to look into the future of general practice.

Tuesday 31 May 1995

12:30 - 2pm

The address is a lunchtime function and includes a two course meal, wine, tea and coffee. Tickets are $26 for Press Club members, $36 for non-members, and $20 for student members.

For bookings phone the National Press Club on (06) 273 3644
